No, what is indicative of Manatron is negligence on your part to protect images, bullying on your part against your employees, and the illegal tampering with public records, a criminal act.

Thanks for not unf*cking this up. It's quite valuable.

As you will recall, we had a gateway (me) to protect the integrity of access to the system but Leslie knew best and modified a public record without using audit methods and without using the gateway. Don't worry Les, no one gets fired at Manatron for doing a bad day.

You got rid of the only person that cared enough to see this through and that is proven by the calendar.

Greg,
